Hey Everyone,

Finished up the pool just now. I'll send another email tomorrow again for those who miss this.

Thank you very much for your interest in doing the US Open pool again this year. PLEASE READ THE RULES (DIFFERENT THAN MASTERS). We're going to keep Mr. Hubbard's pool format idea from last year as I think it keeps close to the tried and true Masters format while spicing it up a little. I plan to do the Open Championship this year as well and will think up another format for that one.

Entries are $20. Please venmo @Cam-Wasylak as usual.

Rules:

- Pick 2 players you want to win from groups 1, 2 and 3.
- Pick 1 player you want to win from groups 4 and 5.
- Pick 2 players that you want to lose (short) from the full field.

Scoring:

- Players you pick to win will be scored based on how close their position in the field is to first (ex. 1st place is 1 point, 27th is 27 points, etc.).
- Players you pick to win that are cut automatically are 75 points.
- Players you pick to lose will be scored based on how close their position within the field is to last (ex. last place is 1 point, 30th to last is 30 points, etc.).
- Players you pick to lose that are not in the bottom 75 after 2 days are automatically 75 points.
- WD's and DQ's will automatically be 75 points.
- Least points wins!

Thanks again to everyone who participates! I'll reach back out soon.

Cam

Hey Everyone,

For those who were confused, for your short picks, you can short anyone from the entire field that you want. The short picks are not group specific.

Hey everyone.

Picks are due at 6:35am before the first tee time.

Someone submitted picks as "Lucatony" with the email "blazer549@aol.com". Does anyone know who that is? If so they picked their short players from groups 1 and 2 which means I assume they didn't fully get the rules. If nobody knows them I'm gonna remove their picks.

Also to those who emailed me their picks instead of doing the google form, I have submitted your picks for you on the google form but please know I'm doing these forms going forward for the pools.

Feel free to reach out if there are any questions.

Cam
